GROUP INSURANCE FOR THE FIREMEN

Proposition Is Discussed By Council At Its Meeting Last Night—Its Provisions — Committees Will Confer

PLAYGROUNDS ARE A THEME

Matter of Buying Baseball Grounds Proposed — Banks May Be Seen In Matter—Need of Better And More Sidewalks And Incinerator Discussed

Charleroi council met in regular monthly session last night. The first proposition considered by the body, was that of group insurance for the firemen. A representative of the Aetna Life Insurance Company was present and explained the workings of the plans of the company in collective and individual cases of the firemen. The contract is one, which if entered into, will be between the company and the borough The insurance is purely accident, and provides by the general plan recompense for accident, but not from exposure, solely. If it can be proven that pneumonia, or other malady is contracted through accident at a conflagration, and death results, the beneficiary will receive the amount of the policy, each member of the fire company being insured in the sum of $2,000. In the case of broken limbs or other bodily disabilities, causing temporary cessation from duties of whatever vocation the insured is engaged, the sum of $15 a week is paid for a stated time. The cost of the insurance is $8 a year for each of the 53 firemen. President J. Bryant Tussing appointed a committee of council to confer with a committee of firemen in the matter ere action is taken by the borough's leading civic body.

The proposition of the playgrounds was discussed by the councilmen. One of the members was of the opinion that the baseball grounds could be purchased for a reasonable sum, and the fact that they are in close proximity to the river, makes the grounds the most available locally for the purpose. It is possible that a conference will be had with the local banks with a view for the purchase of the grounds —this was the deduction that could be assumed. The idea is that council should be known when playgrounds are secured, as being the "pioneer in the movement."

Nothing of consequence was offered in the White Way system, but it seems to be the consensus of opinion that, as they are now placed, the lights are too high for practical and even the best ornamental purposes.

Council discussed the need of better streets, and the fact that a garbage incinerator is a dire necessity.

Borough Solicitor David M. McCloskey was instructed to correspond with the State Highway Department relative to borough streets, state appropriation for their maintenance, et cetera.

Council approved the proposition of providing in the budget $3,000 for the use of the firemen, contributory by them in the purchase of the aerial ladder truck. The sum of $1131 was turned over to the firemen, money received from the state through foreign fire insurance companies subdivided among the state volunteer fire companies, prorata.

TOO MANY FIGHTS TO GO OUT WEST

Cuddy DeMarco, smiling and gracious as ever, returned from Baltimore yesterday, where he fought a draw with Bob Garcia. Cuddy did not have a scratch to [illegible] istianic argument with the Mexican; and said that the only way he could have obtained the decision, was to have kayoed Garcia.

DeMarco said that he was presumed to have joined Red Mason and Harry Greb in San Francisco for a tour of the far western states, but that he was precluded from so doing, account of the number of engagements he has scheduled ahead, and the offers which he is beseiged from time to time. Every state, and every city, of any proportions, in the entire galaxy of Eastern states want him, for his fame has been heralded from the housetops, and he finds it difficult to fulfill his engagements. He reports, however, that he hopes to visit the west and the Pacific slope this fall.

Folk Suffer Who Did Not Observe A New Ruling

Harrisburg, March 5.—Despite repeated announcements that the Automobile Division of the State Highway department will no longer accept applications for which the fees are blanketed in one check or money order, the Department, March 3. was [illegible] plications to persons who disregarded the new rule.

No application of any kind will be accepted by the Automobile Division, at Harrisburg, unless it is accompanied by remittance covering the single application.

No blanket checks will be accepted All applications covered by blanket remittance will be returned to the senders.

The new ruling is made in the interest of efficiency and will result in cutting the Automobile Division force of employes 25 percent.

On Monday, hundreds of packages of applications were returned to notaries and others who sent them, these packages containing from two to one hundred applications, each pack under a single check.

Thousands of applications were returned, too, because the senders violated the new rule that the answers to questions must be printed or typewritten. The execrable handwriting in which so many applications have been made has clogged the wheels of the Automobile Division and made necessary the employment of a great many extra people.

"These are simple rulings. They will cause no one the slightest inconvenience. They will permit us to work faster. They will be enforced," said Registrar Benjamin G. Eynon.

No extension of time has been given 1923 drivers' cards Persons driving without a 1924 card are violating the law.

Force Is Given Written And Oral Tests

Twenty-six candidates for the Washington police force, which is being reorganized under the new third-class city charter, were given written and oral tests by the members of the civil service commission last night at the city building of that place.

"The class examined was very good and we feel that from it Washington can get a sufficient number of capable men to provide the city with a competent police force," said Prof. J. C. McGregor, chairman of the [illegible] speaking of the general results of the tests.

We will meet again tomorrow afternoon to complete a summary of our work and then will be ready to present our facts to council," he continued.

Examination of the applicants required more than three hours of intensive work on the part of Commissioners J. C. McGregor, E. M. Hazlett and B. F. Mevay, Jr At 7 o'clock the candidates assembled in the council room of the building where they were given a written test which required two hours.

After submitting their written work the candidates were called before the commission individually to be questioned, which required more than an hour. The candidates will be classified according to the grades given them in the two tests.

The classification of the candidates will be completed at the meeting which will be held this afternoon. The commissioners expect to finish it today and will then be ready to submit it to council at the convenience of the latter.

Chairman McGregor stated that the tests given last night would be the last previous to the reorganization of the police force but that men desiring to become members in the future could file their applications at an time with City Clerk John Griffiths and be examined at the call of the board as it will be necessary to have qualified candidates ready to fill vacancies.

Case Withdrawn; Counsel Makes Unwise Remark

The case of William Vaughan, of California against Dr. John W Farquhar, which was taken up before Judge Cummins yesterday morning was withdrawn from the jury and continued because of a remark made by counsel. This is a suit to recover damages for the alleged improper treatment of a broken arm.

The plaintiff suffered a fracture of the right forearm on July 26, 1920, while employed in the Crescent mine of the Pittsburgh Coal company near California. Dr. Farquhar was called to set it, which he did. It did not knit properly, and Dr. Farquhar sent the plaintiff to the Mercy hospital, Pittsburgh. It is alleged by the plaintiff that X-ray photographs taken there showed that it had not been set properly and he brings suit to recover damages.

The case of James M Rush, of West Bethlehem township, against J. O. McDonough, which was called Monday before Judge Erwin Cummins, arose from a collision between a truck of the plaintiff and a touring car of the defendant on the National pike, three miles east of Washington on October 20, 1919. The accident occurred on a very foggy morning Mr. McDonough testified that he was keeping away from his extreme right of the road to avoid some piles of stone, which it was impossible to see.

None of the county officials were in town yesterday when the case of William P. Caldwell against Washington county was called before Judge Erwin Cummins, and it was continued until Thursday morning. This is a suit to recover damages for personal injuries and damage to a machine, arising when the Ford roadster of the plaintiff went through the floor of the Vanvoorhis bridge, over Pigeon creek, in Fallowfield township, on April 2, 1920.

Clem Pireaux, 58 Years Old, of Lock No. 4 Hill, Victim of Reckless Driver, Who Speeds Away And Has Not Been Apprehended

RIBS BROKEN, LUNG CUT

Condition Is Serious At Charleroi-Monessen Hospital—Accident Is Unwarranted. According to William Kline, As There Is An Arc Light At That Place

Last night at 7 o'clock, an unknown autoist ran down Clem Piraux, aged 58, of Lock 4 hill, as the gentleman was crossing the street at Allenwood directly in front of the residence of William Kline. The driver of the machine, after hitting the man, turned off his lights and continued on his way, it is thought to Monessen, as he was headed in that direction. Mr. Kline said that the man was driving a Ford car, but that he could not identify him, due to the fact that he turned off the lights of his car so quickly. Nor was he able to ascertain the license number of the car.

Mr. Piraux, after being hurled to the ground by the automobilist, was given first aid by Mr. Kline and his daughter, the latter summoning by telephone, the ambulance. The injured man was taken to the local hospital, information from the institution this morning elicited the fact that he had suffered two fractured ribs and a punctured lung, injuries that are serious, but it is hoped, will not prove fatal.

At the time of the accident, Mr. Piraux had proceeded down the street running parallel with the Charleroi-Monessen hospital, and was enroute to visit his sister, who lives at 903 Lincoln avenue, this place. He was conscious this morning, but his condition is such that he cannot give a clear and concise statement of just how the accident occurred, other than that he was crossing the street.

HASTE IS URGED IN MAKING RETURNS

The following statement is issued by Collector of Internal Revenue D. B. Holner, of the 23d District of Pennsylvania

With only ten days remaining in which to file income tax returns, taxpayers are warned against delay in forwarding their returns to collectors of Internal Revenue Comparison of the number of returns filed during the months of January and February with those filed during the corresponding period of 1923 shows a decided decrease. This, no doubt, is in part attributable to the desire of taxpayers to take full advantage of the proposed reductions and especially of the 25 percent reduction on income for the year 1923. However, the tax on income for the year 1923 is being collected under the Revenue Act of 1921, which is still in effect, and which provides heavy penalties for failure or "willful refusal" to file a return and pay, at least one-fourth of the tax on, or before March 15, 1924 The Revenue Act of 1924 containing this and other proposed reductions, is now before Congress and there is little likelihood of its enactment prior to the closing day of the filing period.

The proposed 25 percent reduction in the tax on income for the year 1923 is retroactive to January 1, 1923. Enactment of the pending legislation means in the case of taxpayers who pay on the installment plan, a revision of their accounts in the offices of the collectors by crediting the account with one-fourth of the amount of the tax declared to be due on the return. In those cases where the tax is paid in full at the time of filing the returns, the 25 percent excess will be refunded promptly without requirement of filing a claim. No material advantage is to be gained by taxpayers who withhold their returns which should be made out in accordance with the provisions of the Revenue Act of 1921; the normal tax being four percent on the first $4,000 of net income above the exemptions and eight percent on the remaining net income and the surtax ranging [illegible] net income between $6,000 and $10,000 to 50 percent on the amount by which the net income exceeds $200,000.

Every single person, whose net income for 1923 was $1,000, or more, or whose gross income was $5,000 or more, must file a return. Married persons (living together), are required to file a return if the aggregate net income was $2,000 or more, or if the aggregate gross income was $5,000 or more. Single persons, in calculating the normal tax, may subtract from their income an exemption of $1,000. The exemption for married persons and heads of families is $2,500 on incomes of $5,000 or less, and $2,000 on incomes in excess of $5,000. Taxpayers are allowed also an additional credit of $400 for each person (other than husband or wife) dependent upon and receiving his chief support from the taxpayer, if such dependent person is under 18 years of age, or incapable of self-support because mentally or physically defective.

Thousands In Pensions Are Received By Retired Rail Road Employes

Retired employes of the Pennsylvania Railroad System received a total of $3,698,636 in pensions during 1923. This is shown in reports of last year's work and activities of the Pension Department which are now being compiled by Superintendent E. S. Hunt. The pension payments in 1923 exceeded those of the previous year by $383,972. During the twelve months there was a net increase of 1 083 in the names of workers who have been relieved of their active duties and placed upon the "Roll of Honor" under the pension regulations.

The pension plan of the Pennsylvania Railroad System was inaugurated January 1, 1900. In the twenty-four years which elapsed between that date and December 31, last, the company paid out a total of $32,187,868, in pension allowances, and retired under the plan a total of 16,406 employes. Of these 7,376 are now living and receiving pensions.

There are at present thirty-one retired workers on the "Roll of Honor" who are ninety years or more old. [illegible] are 772 pensioners who are eighty years old or over. Of the ninety year men, eight have been on the "Roll of Honor" for more than [illegible] years each, having been among those retired when the pension [illegible] was originally established.

An analysis of the service records of the entire group of "Roll of Honor" men shows that the typical Pennsylvania Railroad employe renders about forty years of active service prior to retirement.

The regulations of the company's pension plan apply impartially to all officers and employes, regardless of rank, grade or position. Every man or woman in the service, upon reaching the age of seventy years, is automatically retired. Between the ages of sixty-five and sixty-nine, inclusive, worers who are physically or mentally disqualified for active duty who have rendered thirty or more years of service may be placed on the "Rol lof Honor" upon special recommendation.

The pensions are all calculated upon a uniform basis. One per cent of the average earnings for the last ten years of active work is allowed for each year of service. Thus, a man or woman who works fifty years practically devoting his entire life to the company's duties, receives substantially half pay.

These pension allowances are paid entirely out of the company's funds as voluntary gifts in recognition of long and faithful service. In addition all employes who desire to do so are now afforded an opportunity to increase their pensions by [illegible] members of the Employes' Provident and Loan Association, and contributing specified amounts [illegible] monthly salaries which [illegible] vested and form the basis for [illegible] ed income upon reaching the [illegible] retirement.

INQUIRY INTO FAILURE OF DEPARTMENT

Washington, March 5. — (United Press).— The Daugherty investiga-tion will open with an inquiry into the department of justice's failure to prosecute 55 cases turned over to it by the federal trade commission, it appeared probable here today.

Difficulty encountered by Senator Wheeler, Montana, prosecutor of the investigation in whipping other "leads" into shape for presentation to the committee when it opens hear-ings next week is responsible.

Wheeler has not yet picked the law clerk who will aid him in sifting the material in the committee's hands, and its huge quantity precludes his making any progress tackling it alone.

The committee is able to proceed at once to the consideration of the fed-eral trade cases, because the depart-ment recently submitted a report on its conduct to them in response to a Senate resolution.

The committee is conferring with persons believed to have information concerning the department's activi-ties in its search for evidence.

Gaston B. Means, former depart-ment secret agent, and a soldier of fortune with a romantic record, is re-ported to have been in consultation with the committee.

Search for an experienced investi-gator to aid the committee is being made. William J. Flynn, former di-rector of the bureau of investigation of the department, is said to be under consideration.

"HIGH" SOCIETY FEELS EFFECTS OF BUTLER

Philadelphia, March 5. — (United Press).—General Butler and anti-liquor squads broke into "high" so-ciety here early today.

Despite protests of society folk, a squad of detectives attended the Bal Masque the leading society event of the year, at the Bellevue-Stratford Hotel last night. They were there to enforce the Volstead act, but their labors availed them nothing. No flasks were captured and no hilarious dancer was taken from the floor, al-though evidence of drinking was everywhere. Butler's men had a diffi-cult assignment and they hardly knew how to handle it.

An air of expectancy prevailed about the hotel. Things were expect-ed to happen. Philadelphia's "smart ... vellance. Crowds gathered in the street. Some of the dancers expected to be arrested. One matron, gowned in a bathing costume, brought a pair of overalls to wear to the police sta-tion in case she was "pinched." Others wanted to know when the place ...

But the detectives did not spoil the evening. The ball was as gay as ever. Society folk did not flaunt their liquor flasks before the officers, but they had their drinks just the same. Butler's men watched it all but no arrests were made.

Mrs. Harry Kirkwood has returned to her home in Wampum, Pa., after spending several days visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Lutes.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Sutherland, Mr. and Mrs. William Beam and Mrs. Mary Sutherland visited Miss Kate Beazell and Mrs. Samuel Fox of Twi-light.

Misses Margaret Chalfant, Elsie Sneed and Ruth Walters, and Thorn-ton Douthitt motored to Washington Sunday and visited at the homes of Mrs. O. S. Chalfant, of Wade avenue, Miss Anna Ross of West Chestnut street, and Miss Thelma Morrison of Arch street.

Rev. and Mrs. Homer N. Clark en-tertained the Old Reliable class of the M. E. church on Friday evening, in the church basement. After the business meeting, a good time was enjoyed by all. Games were played and puzzles worked. A delightful luncheon was served by Mrs. Clark, assisted by Misses Elsie Sneed and Ruth Walters. The next meeting will be held just one month from date at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Hat-field.

Bride Advised on How to Be Boss of Husband

Don't wear curl papers the first two years—after that it will not matter.

Keep a set of Walter Scott in your apartment to occupy you in the hours when you are not on speaking terms with your husband. Some brides have been able to finish Dickens and "The Decline and Fall of the Roman Em-pire" as well.

Teach him to cook before you are married; he will be unsuspicious then, and they learn easier before than after marriage.

Don't believe him when he says he will take up dancing next winter. Make him sign a contract to this effect before the ceremony.

Don't start him in on sweetbreads and creamed mushrooms; this will make the contrast too marked when you begin to feed him on potato chips and cold ham. A hungry man will eat anything if you give him time; and he will be less likely to talk about the way mother used to cook if you train him in the first six months.

Always be taken ill when your mother-in-law comes to visit you; after she has done all the work for a day or two she will be glad to go back to her own home again. In the mean-time you can have a good rest in bed.

Any bride who follows these direc-tions accurately can have as many husbands as she wants.—New York Sun and Globe.

British Officer Found Townships Too Big

For nearly a year the British prison-ers taken after Burgoyne's surrender were held in Massachusetts, and then came from congress the order to march them to barracks in Virginia. The officers traveled with considerable lib-erty. Thomas Anburey, a British lieu-tenant, complained of the size of the townships in Connecticut in his rem-iniscences, first published in 1789, and recently published. "About the center of these town... stands the meeting house, or ... with a few scattering houses, ... at times the cry of ... is only singly. It is no little mortifi-cation, when fatigued after a long day's journey, on inquiring how far it is to such a town to be informed you are there at present ... pointing for the church or any ... tavern you are informed it is seven or eight miles further."

Anburey observed that most of the Connecticut houses were only half fin-ished, the other half having only the rough timbers that supported the building. "Upon inquiry I learned that when a man builds a house he leaves it in this state until his son marries, when he fits it up for his family, and the father and son live under one roof."—New York Herald.

Wine for Codfish

Spain and Iceland have made a trade treaty. The document specifies that Spain is to grant most-favored nation treatment to dried codfish from Ice-land and Iceland is to exempt Spanish wines of not more than 21 per cent alcoholic content from prohibition.

What a standoff! Now the Spanish internal economy may be lubricated and padded with portions of cod-liver oil and the cockles of the Icelandic heart may be warmed with drafts of Castilian vintage.

The elevation of Bacchus to equality with the sacred cod is like to seem heresy to folk on Olympus way. Wine for codfish. We learn for explanation on the ancient aphorism that there's no accounting for tastes. But were we to choose? Well, the thing doesn't seem real.—The Nation's Business.

Way Out of It

The little boy was fond of nursery rhymes and fairy tales, and was al-ways asking questions about them.

One day he asked his mother: "Why didn't the man in the nursery rhyme put up a notice to 'Keep Off the Grass'? Then he wouldn't have been cruel to the maiden."

"Which man, dear?" said his moth-er, "and to whom was he cruel?"

"Well," said the little fellow, "nurse often tells me about the man all tat-tered and torn who kicked the maiden off the lawn."

Kills and Cures in Coal

Healing medicines and deadly explo-sives lie latent in every lump of coal, and science is extracting one or the other in a thousand laboratories over the world each day. Half the drugs in the pharmacopeia probably are coal-tar products. While one laboratory may be extracting salicylic acid, for gout, for instance, or aspirin for congestion and rheumatism, another chemist will be distilling the products from which TNT is made or even lyddite, the pow-erful explosive first used in the Sudan.

Worth It

A newly rich woman, giving her first dinner party and anxious to make it a success, was engaging the services of a certain well-known singer.

"My fee," said the latter "is $50."

"I agree to pay that," answered the hostess, "but you understand that you will not meet my guests, don't you?"

"Oh," came the quick reply, "then I will take $25."

The Blunder

"Gentlemen of the jury," said a blundering barrister, in a suit about a lot of hogs, "there were just 36 hogs in that drove; please to remember that ... as many as there are in the jury box."

That counsel did not win his case.

Carmel Cognoscenti Bar Modern Devices

An artistic Elysium where streets and sewers and other evidences of modern civilization do not exist, the kindly acres where, according to Cato, no dust exists to retard creative in-spiration, freedom from society's fet-ters.

Such is the incentive of the new artists' retreat that well-known mem-bers of the Carmel Cognoscenti have established at Notley's Landing, an abandoned town 15 miles from the scene of Carmel itself.

For Carmel, declare these anti-con-ventionalists, is fast becoming too modern to be the ideal playground for brain children. New sewers, an in-corporated city government, all the conventionalities of a stylish summer colony, do not blend harmoniously with ideal artistic conception, they declare.

The movement for an artistic ex-odus is well under way, it would seem, with Evan Royal Mosher, paint-er; John Howard Flanner, composer, and Herbert Heron, writer-poet, al-ready living at Notley's Landing, and with William Overstreet, Carmel edi-tor, announcing his plans of following suit.

With the advent of numerous sum-mer visitors Carmel, the artists' state, has taken on too many aspects of a real city, whereas it was once replete with freedom and artistic communism. —San Francisco Chronicle.

Roman Generals Liked Spring Mineral Water

The Romans, who knew much about external and internal cleanliness that was forgotten after the downfall of their power, attached the greatest im-portance to the drinking of mineral water. At Aix-les-Thermes, for in-stance, in the Pyrenees, the waters were used by the Roman conquerors, and St. Louis of France built there for the use of Crusaders who returned from the Holy Land stricken with lep-rosy. This pond is still in existence.

It was in the Nineteenth century, however, that Aix-les-Thermes was adapted to modern needs and became a popular resort. Its waters contain sodium sulphide and are very benefi-cial for rheumatism and gout.

In this country the term "thermal" is not in wide use, one seldom hearing the term "thermal resort" applied to places where persons go to take a "cure." In Europe, on the other hand, the word is in common use, and a ther-mal resort is recognized as a place whose waters possess certain healing and health-giving properties, and which has also been developed to take proper care of those who resort for a cure or to enjoy a period of rest and recreation.—Detroit News

Locate Leaks

An automatic leak indicator for ships consists of a number of small cast-iron boxes screwed to the bulk-head of each compartment and set at ... other. In each box there is an elec-trical contrivance connected with an indicator board, either on the bridge or in some other convenient place. The board is dotted with a number of small glow lamps of different colors, and is connected with an alarm bell. When water rises to the level of the lowest box it passes an electric contact, by which the lamp corresponding to the height of the bulkhead that the box indicates is lighted and so remains until the next box is reached by the water, when the second lamp is switched. Meanwhile the bell rings continuously until shut off.

Words Failed Him

The telephone rang and a voice inquired: "Say, Blanche, is zat you?"

"Yes."

"Say, Blanche, I called you up to tell you somepin important."

"Just a minute, Mittie. Wait until I take the eggs off the fire. Now what is it, dearie?"

"Hold the wire. My soup's scorch-ing."

There was a long pause, and then: "Hello, Blanche."

"Hello, Mittie. What was it you wanted to tell me? Somepin impor-tant, you said."

"I dunno now, Blanche. My biscuits are burnt to a crisp."

Origin of Old Phrase

It is said the phrase "Throwing sand in their eyes" had its origin in a curi-ous circumstance.

The tale comes from the south of Siberia, where the landscape consists ... of sand. For centuries this country was inhabited by hostile tribes and primitive "training" meth-ods of horseback warfare.

And it is related of these people that one of their principal weapons in ... of an enemy was their native sand, which they tossed at him, with the result, if the aim was good, of at least temporary bewilderment and blindness.—Detroit News.

42 Days to Cross Sea

Seventy-five years ago the Hamburg-American line established its first ship, the Deutschland, in the service be-tween Hamburg and New York. This was a sailing vessel of 771 tons, and was regarded as a monster craft in those days. Adolph Goeffrey, director of the company, at a meeting of the directors in 1848, told with great pride of the high character of the accommo-dations which its three ships were af-fording transatlantic travelers, who ... burg to New York and 30 days on the eastward trip.—Detroit News.

UNKNOWN AUTOIST RUNS A MAN DOWN

According to Mr. Kline, the acci-dent was inexcusable, inasmuch as there is an arc light at the point where it occurred, and he cannot find palliation for what he terms was an unjustifiable accident.

A Story of a Pleasure-Mad Girl

NEVER will she forget that dreadful night which in a few short hours changed her from a laughing, carefree, pleasure-loving girl to a serious minded, careworn woman of the world.

Poor little Kate—once too often she had cast the dice with fate and now she was called upon to pay. It was not the first time she had taken [illegible] with strange men through country roads and dusky lanes, not the first time she had dropped in at a road-house for a midnight lunch with a man she had never met before. But it was to be the last, for to-night this little moth, gayly fluttering around the flame of life, had flown too close.

If she had only known, if the thousands of girls who every year learn by terrible experience, could only be made to realize that no matter what the provocation, no girl can afford to disregard convention, become careless in her personal conduct, or sacrifice her dignity in the pursuit of pleasure, what countless hours of living death would be avoided.

"My Stranger Husband" is her story, as told by herself. It is a tale of the experience of an ordinary girl, not bad—just average, who in her eagerness to taste the joys of life tried to force the hand of fate. It is in True Story Magazine for April.

From the safe haven of your own fireside see the mistakes she made, see her thoughtlessly abuse her new-found freedom, see the methods by which men she had never met scraped her acquaintance, ride with her on moon-lit roads, see the grim joke played upon her by fate in the guise of a man, follow her through months and years of atonement, even to the shadow of the prison wall. Not only a lesson in life, that thousands pay years of tears and agony to learn but a splendid, vivid true story that will hold your deepest interest to the closing word.

It was not the first time she had dropped into a road house for a midnight lunch with a man she had never met before—but tonight this little moth, gayly fluttering around the flame of life, had flown too close.

Vivid Heart-Stories Fearlessly Told

Here Are Just A Few of the Remarkable Features In The April Issue of True Story Magazine

"The Lure of Green Eyes"—Good looking, an athlete, a splendid student, he led his class in college until he attracted the fancy of Norah Sanderson, beautiful divorcee, woman of the world and ruthless. Then he began to fall behind until, when graduation time came round, he was barely able to make a passing grade. Not understanding women of her type, he considered himself as playing a temporary, pleasant role which he could abandon at any time he chose. But when finally true love came into his life and he tried to break with Nora—but read this amazing story of a mistake that ruins the lives of thousands of young men every year.

"A Fool There Was"—Fresh from the country, he was burdened with self-consciousness, and the morals of ten generations of ministers. By his associates in the city he was considered "just a poor dub." He decided that what he needed was knowledge—knowledge of life—of women—especially of women. He got it—but in a manner and with completeness he could never forget. The things he learned will be of as much value to you as they were to him.

"The Price of Silence"—When she left her baby on her mother's doorstep to be taken in as a foundling she thought she had reached a happy solution of her problem. But years later, when it became necessary for her to break two loving hearts and bare her own, broken these many years in order to forestall an even grimmer tragedy, she realized that sooner or later sin will out. Read this story of an erring woman's life and be glad that you do not have to pay for the knowledge as she had to pay.

"A Wife In The Way"—They married while almost children. As the years passed he developed into a brilliant, talented man on the threshold of a great career while she grew to be a narrow minded, shallow incapable woman—a millstone hung around his neck. Eventually he met the woman who of all women in the world could make him happy. The manner in which these three worked out their destinies makes a thrilling tale of love and tragedy, smiles and tears such as you have seldom read. A powerful argument against thoughtless or too early marriage.

"When Hope Seemed Dead"—When a girl who has given her heart to one man, marries another whom she does not love because her parents wish it, is she not working a terrible injustice upon all three? Is not tragedy, suffering, unhappiness and regret almost sure to follow? Would it not be better to defy her parents to do their worst rather than face the terrible consequences and temptations of such an alliance? This story, told by a girl who had to decide these questions for herself will make wonderful reading and give you a deep insight into human nature.

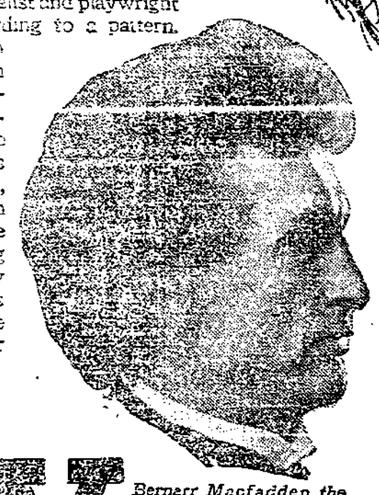
True Story A Missionary to Boys and Girls

"It is with much pleasure I give my whole-hearted endorsement of your magazine TRUE STORY. It lifts it above the sordid and unnatural types of life which our young people have depicted for them in many of our cheap movies and in much of the literature of today. In addition to acting as an antidote to these, your magazine will creat a condition of mind where the actual facts of life can be freely investigated and discussed without fear of arousing a false modesty into indignation. I have long been convinced that to raise the moral tone of our people, we must learn to face the actual facts of life, and deal with these facts on the moral plane. I feel that parents could not do better than to let your magazine be a missionary to their boys and girls so that the great issues of life may be presented in such a way as to free them from the immoral slant which is stopping the reality out of life. What applies to the young is applicable also to adults. If a magazine of this nature were read in every home I believe it would tend to fireside happiness and to the elimination of the many things leading to the divorce courts. (Signed) Rev. F. McAvoy

Why True Story Magazine is a Powerful Influence For Good

True Story Magazine is all that its name implies. Its stories of love, romance, adventure, intrigue, passion, wickedness, sorrow, tragedy are stories as they actually happen in real life. The fictionist novelist and playwright build their stories according to a pattern. Their purpose is only to entertain. The writers in True Story Magazine follow no pattern but life itself. Stripped of all the artificiality that so warps and falsifies life in books, the personal chronicles in True Story Magazine have a depth, a sincerity, a "ring of truth" that not only warns, guides, instructs and stimulates, but at the same time holds the reader enthralled.



Bernarr Macfadden the man who founded True Story Magazine, who made it the success it is today and who has always controlled its editorial policy.

When young people are stuffed with less romantic nonsense and are fed with wholesome truth about life as it really is we shall have higher standards of morals and less degradation, sin and suffering. It is because True Story Magazine reflects this philosophy so well that it has become such a powerful influence for good. The April issue is now on the newsstands. THE TAX PROBLEM.

According to the New York Journal of Commerce, tax reduction projects without reference to government expenditures, and such necessary budget adjustments and economies that prevent deficits, inflation and induce a higher living cost. According to Henry Ford, "any administration or set of legislators that advocate high taxes ought to be run out of office because what they are really advocating is high cost of living." The government may take 1 percent or 99 percent of his income and it would make little difference to him personally, says Mr. Ford, but it would make a great difference to the poor man who wants a Ford car because he can be put back into the business to extend production and raise wages. Therefore, Mr. Ford concludes that high taxes on the rich do not take burdens from the poor; they put burdens on the poor."

He seems to think it inevitable that what the government takes from the rich the rich will recoup through charges which the poor or the masses must pay. With such an argument carried to its logical extreme, it might be gravely contended that the masses would be better off if the rich were not taxed at all. Right decision and just practical arrangement are admittedly difficult, but it can not be questioned that the aim of a wise government desirous to benefit all the people should tax wealth rather than poverty and to keep taxation in general as low as possible through rigid economy in expenditures. This is the proper aim, whatever the difficulties of applicatoin.

President Mary E. Woolley of Mount Holyoke College says smoking is forbidden among the girls of her school "not because it is immoral,"—which it isn't "at all"—but because it just isnt quite smart, and the nicest girls aren't doing it." There is an impression that so many girls are now smoking precisely because they think it is "smart." If President Woolley can convince American girls generally that it isn't, no doubt there will be much less of it.

Mr. Daugherty will not thank the New York Tribune for its suggestion that he "ignore his Democratic accusers" be resigning on the basis that he "ignore his Democratic accusers" by resigning on the basis that he "was a wholly personal selection of Mr. Harding and possessed neither the legal ability nor outstanding reputation for the Attorney-Generalship."

Woodrow Wilson's will provides that his unmarried daughter is to receive an annual income of $2500 "if this amount does not exceed one-third of the total income of the estate." As usual the exact value of the estate is not announced, but judging from this item it can hardly be more than the modest sum of $150,000.

1,000 HOUSES.

One thousand houses are needed in Charleroi and North Charleroi. If that many were available, they would be tenanted in a short time. The house situation here is the most serious in the history of the two boroughs. The Chamber of Commerce sponsored moving picture films advancing the proposition of buying or owning your own home; this idea is wholesome and worthy of consideration; but the fact remains that theory, while fine, has never accomplished anything unless practical demonstration is made. The Chamber of Commerce, or other civic body may recommend, but this does not relieve the situation; something must be done.

Charleroi has plenty of men of finance—gentlemen who have the best interests of the borough at heart—ostensibly; and yet, when it comes to a matter of business, they are pretty much the same as other financiers—they must be shown. They will not contribute to community welfare to any great extent, unless the interest returns are assured.

One trouble with Charleroi is, that available land for home sites are at a premium. The territory of the borough is built up, and the trend now is North Charleroi, where a number of homes have been built in the past few years, and where property is changing hands with regularity. The majority of the leasing residents of both boroughs are forced to buy, even though tax rates are high and working conditions in our manufacturing interests, fluctuate.

But how can the borough and the community prosper when people want to come here, make their homes here, and no place for them to live? We have heard of a large manufacturing entity in Monessen that is to increase its capacity in acreage and plant paraphernalia, requiring the services of several hundred workmen, but where are they to live?

What Charleroi needs is a Home Building and Loan Association that can develop territory adjacent to be known as "Greater Charleroi," or "Charleroi Extension." Build for the people homes, and make the terms such that poor men can meet them. If we cannot provide homes for the residents, Charleroi, and this community, cannot hope to progress in material lines, and while this talk of a "pretty town," a "Magic City," and the like sounds nice, still, we must get down to "brass tacks" and dig into the real superstructure of material prosperity which comes only through a happy and contented people knowing that they are assured a place to lay their heads when the evening shadows fall. Sentiment and poetic fancy fail in the stern realities of life.

To exercise the parts of the body in which fat accumulates, and help users improve their physical condition, a revolving hammock has been invented. It is

Farms in Cities Predicted in Seventy-Five Years

Small farms within the city limits, double and triple-decked streets, and greatly enlarged traffic accommodations of all kinds, will be needed by New York within the next seventy-five years, it is predicted, to care for the 29,000,000 inhabitants who by that time are expected to call the city their home.

Navy's Electric Fleet Has Power for Giant Tasks

Electric energy generated by the six battleships propelled by electricity now numbered among the navy's fighting craft, according to engineers, if applied to other tasks could furnish sufficient power to run 3,200 street cars or pull forty-eight passenger trains. A mountain of solid rock 5,000 feet high and the same distance through the base, if placed on an immense jack, could be lifted by the force required to operate the vessels, at the rate of a foot a day. Connected to pumps, it is enough to drain Lake Michigan at such speed that the level would be reduced ten feet a year, or it could light, heat, and furnish power to 600 towns with populations of 5,000. Were it possible to use the energy in artillery, 200 tons of shells could be shot onto the moon each day.

Simple Method of Making Rag Mats

Excellent doormats can be made at home from strips of rag or burlap. The strips must all be of the same width and twisted until they are about the thickness of a finger. The strips are tacked, about 4 in. from one end, to a length of wood, and are spaced ¾ in. apart. The width of the mat depends on the number of strips used, which must be an even number.

After fastening the length of wood to a table or bench, the strips are ready to be woven, which is done by tying them together with "square" knots until the mat is completed. The first knot is tied with the first and second strips, the second knot with the third and fourth strips, the third knot with the fifth and sixth strips, and so on to the end. The second row of knots is begun by tying the second and third strips, then the fourth and fifth strips and so on. The knots are all tied in the same way, and the method of doing this is plainly shown in the detail. A spacing peg must be used, so that all the knots will be of the same size; the knot is tied around the peg, which is then slipped out. The peg should be about 1 in. square and tapered to a point.

Lead-In Fits under Windows

Fitting under a closed window, a flexible lead-in now on the market should prove popular with radio fans. The lead-in is thin and flat, and can be bent to any shape to fit closely to the window ledges. It is covered with a fireproof, insulating material which prevents grounding of circuits on wet window sills, and eliminates the necessity of drilling holes and fitting porcelain tubes in the window frames. Tabs are provided at the ends for soldering the down lead from the aerial and the lead to the instrument. The fitting special benefit to radio enthusiasts living in apartments, where the drilling of window frames is usually prohibited.

Preventing Windows from Steaming

Steamed and frosted windows are a source of annoyance to many housewives as the moisture not only obstructs the view but also soils the glass through the accumulation of dust when sweeping or cleaning. A cloth bag containing a few spoonfuls of tobacco, placed in the water used to wash the windows, will overcome this trouble and will also impart a clear, crystal effect that is very pleasing.

PHARMACY COMPOUNDED WITH FRIENDSHIP

Wouldn't you expect the first woman in the United States who's become president of a state board of pharmacy to be a bit "hard boiled" and cynical? Or at least to hail from a city where she had a good acquaintance among other voting pharmacists?

Honors go to a citizen of New Prague, Minn. New Prague boasts of less than 5,000 citizens, of all ages and sizes. That has left plenty of room, apparently, for one citizen to spread—not cynicism, but enthusiasm.

Starting at fifteen, of necessity, Marie Piesinger, prescription druggist, put her heart into her work. "I have enjoyed every minute of it," she answers folks who want her formula for success in a new field for women. "I enjoy washing a showcase. I enjoy dusting a prescription bottle as much as I enjoy selling a phonograph in the gift shop annex for $295, cash in hand.

"You can make good anywhere. The small town offers the same opportunities the big city does—if you apply yourself and do your job well."

New Prague has received more than honor through her woman pharmacist. Marie Piesinger believes in her town, and puts the belief into practice. As member of the park board, and president of the Garden club, she sees to the planting of flowers in vacant lots where weeds grew heretofore. She holds a Red Cross medal for volunteer service rendered at home during the war.

But the real reasons for living and working in a town in preference to a city, are more personal, more vital to the philosophy of a friendly woman. They are, she holds, two. "First, personalities. You know the people, and they know you better in a small town.

"Second, your interest in the town is greater because it is your town. You are trying to build up, to see it grow and improve."

According to Philadelphia headlines, General Butler "is baffled by flood of alcohol," "no less than 428,700 gallons being "released" there "legally every month." Where does it all come from, who gets it and how?

Man Saves Wife In Nick of Time

"My wife was unable to eat even the lightest food, and had fallen away to a living skeleton. She could not even keep doctor's medicine on her stomach and was tortured with pain. On the recommendation of a friend I bought a bottle of Mayr's Wonderful Remedy and she is all right now and has gained forty pounds." It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments including appendicitis. One dose will convince or money refunded. At all druggists.

Happy Thrift

Happy thrift doesn't mean doing without what you want. It means doing without what you thought was what you wanted—and found wasn't. It means doing without such mistakes before you mistake them.

The only insurance against buying wares you don't want is knowing wares advertised. You can depend upon home furnishings, clothes, foods you see pictured and described everywhere. They are what other folks want, buy and are thrifty about. Wide enjoyment lowers their prices. Thrift again! And they serve to the very limit of their claims.

When you keep an eye on advertisements, you save right. You buy what you think you buy.

Advertisements remove the blindfold from buying—read them carefully.

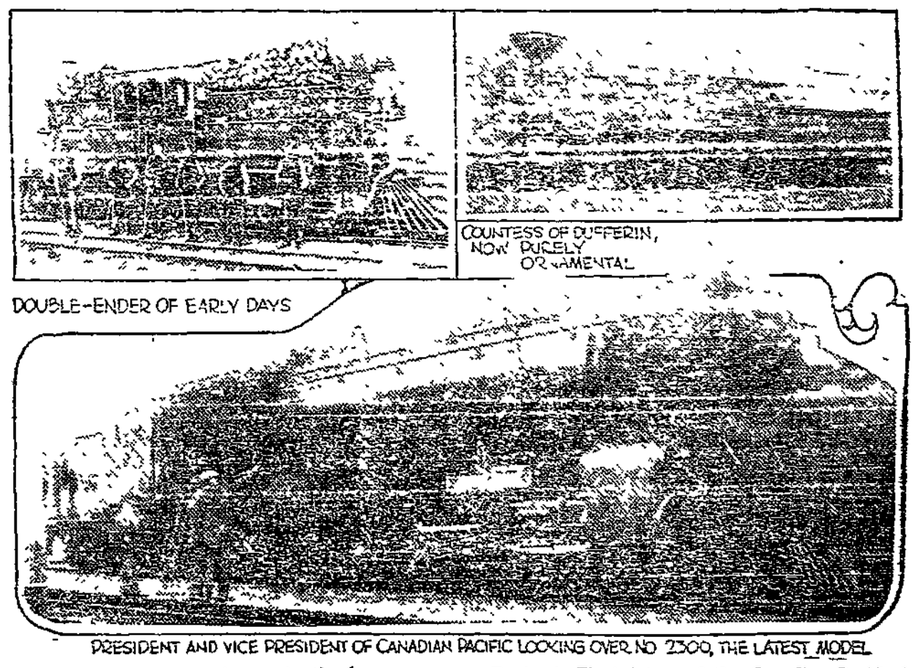
A CENTURY'S CHANGE IN STYLES IN LOCOMOTIVES



PRESIDENT AND VICE PRESIDENT OF CANADIAN PACIFIC LOOKING OVER NO 2300, THE LATEST MODEL

The present century has witnessed such stupendous strides in modes of transportation, culminating in regular scheduled aerial service, that the days of ox-teams, the horse, the high bicycle and safety, are only remembered as actualities by the older generation of today.

Probably the first steam engine was that used by Richard Trevithick in England in 1804. In 1821 the Stockton and Darlington Railway was authorized by parliament to use steam engines. The initial train so drawn, pulled out on Sept. 27th, 1825, and contained 34 cars, or vehicles as they were then designated. It started with a speed of from 10 to 12 miles per hour, and finally attained 15 miles an hour.

In America the development of the locomotive dates from about the same time as in England. The first ones used in this country came from England. In 1828 the Delaware and Hudson Canal Company ordered three locomotives to to built. One of these, named America, built by George Stephenson, was the first to be delivered, reaching New York in January, 1829. However, one of the other two, built at Stourbridge, was really the first locomotive to run in America, which it did on Aug. 9th, 1829.

The first American-built locomotive, The Best Friend of Charleston, was made at the West Point Foundry in New York in 1830. It had a vertical boiler and was indeed crude in comparison with the 1924 moguls and mikados, as today's giant locomotives are termed. With the completion of the first across-America railway in 1869, when the Union Pacific and Central Pacific lines met, and the completion of the Canadian Pacific in 1885, an impetus was given to both freight and passenger traffic. Large engines of greater speed possibilities were turned out, improvements were added annually, wood fuel was superseded by coal, which today on the Pacific Coast is being replaced by oil.

The new series of 2300's recently put into service by the Canadian Pacific, are the last word in locomotive efficiency. One of them recently hauled a mile-long train, of 125 cars of wheat, the total weight of the train being 7,946 tons; a vast contrast to the old double-ender, wood-burning engine of pioneer days in Canada, and the Countess of Dufferin, No. 1, first of many thousands of Canadian Pacific engines, that now stands in front of the company's Winnipeg station. This company makes its own locomotives in its Angus Shops at Montreal.

PROGRESS OF YOUNG MAN

Washington, March 5 —(United Press).—Nineteen years ago, a young man stepped off the Denver train in the smoky station of Butte, Montana, without a cent in his pocket

He looked the town over, decided it held no future for a green attorney just out of law school, obtained some money from a friend and prepared to move further west.

But on his way to the station he lost the money. Without further recourse he settled in Butte to make the best of it.

The green youth was Burton Wheeler, now United States senator from Montana, prosecutor of the Senate's investigation of Attorney General Daugherty.

In the years following the eventful day when circumstances bound him to the Montana mining town, he rose from a "tenderfoot" attorney whose first case was given him by a judge —to defend a man charged with blowing a safe— through the state legislature, the federal district attorneyship, just missing the governor's chair to the senatorial toga.

Back of his two-fisted fight for a part in the political life of the state was a heritage of New England Quaker stock. Wheeler was born and raised in Hudson, Mass.

At college Wheeler had the poor boy's usual time of it He waited on table and did janitor work. One summer vacation, he went on a book hawking expedition in the rural districts of Illinois.

On this trip he met his future wife as he stopped at a farm door to show his prospectuses.

Butte gave Wheeler the chance to develope his political abilities in fighting the great coppe rcountry which dominated the political affairs of the state. His friends say the Daugherty investigation offers him similar opportunities.

HIGH SCHOOL GRADS GO TO COLLEGE

Fifty-one percent of high school graduates in the United States find their way to college, according to a report recently prepared on higher educational statistics by A. H. Espenshade, until recently registrar at the Pennsylvania State College.

A few less than half a million students were attending colleges and professional schools in 1920-21, according to the best available figures. New York state leads all other states in taking care of 55,130 students in its colleges and Pennsylvania is second with 36,262. Delaware has the least number of students. 402.

An outstanding fact in Professor Espenshade's statement is that Pennsylvania stands lowest of all states in the union with seventeen cents as the per capita support for its own state institution of higher education. Nevada ranks first with more than $3 per resident going to higher education.

BERT IS STILL PITCHING BALL

Bert Humphries. of California and Charleroi baseball fame, who pitched shutout and other stellar baseball on the home lots, afterwards his prowess enabling him to enter the big leagues, signed yesterday with the Orlando club of the Florida league. Counting his amateur and professional days. Humphries has been twirling ball for 30 years.

He was a member of the National league of at least three teams—the Philadelphia Nationals, the Cincinnati Reds and the Chicago Cubs and was considered, in his best days as one of the best pitchers in major league baseball. That he is far from being "on the shelf," finds attestation in his being able to make good in even minor league baseball.

PITTSBURGH BED COAL ANALYSIS

The results of a study of the low-temperature carbonization of the Pittsburgh and Upper Kittanning coal made by the Department of the Interior in cooperation with the Carnegie Institute of Technology at the Pittsburgh Experiment Station of the Bureau of Mines(indicate that the regular Pittsburgh bed coal is a good low-temperature coking coal When carbonized at 550 degrees C. in a stationary vertical retort it will yield 33 to 35 gallon of tar, 3500 cubic feet of 600 B t u gas, 1400 pounds of 10 per cent volatile coke, and 6 to 8 pounds of ammonium sulphate per ton.

The other parts of the Pittsburgh bed—namely, the rooster. the lower roof, and the upper roof—are of similar coking quality, differing only in the quantity of by-product yielded. These decrease in the order given. The yield of tar from the upper roof is only 66 per cent that from the regular seam, and from the rooster coal 75 per cent. The difference is largely due to the varation in the ash content of the different sections, and not to the chemical composition of the coals

The Upper Kittanning coal is not a good low-temperature coking coal. The coal is not dense, and the yield of by-product is low. This is a semi-bituminous coal with low volatile matter, and was not expected to yield much tar.

A New Vision of Hope

To the family, life looked barren and cold. Widow and youngsters—who would guide them?

Then, when the will was read, the wise forethought of a loving husband and father was seen. Monthly while he lived he had set aside a sum to build up a living trust. And at death, he had made sure all his assets would be safeguarded, by naming this Institution as his executor.

Will your dependents, too, be freed of care and money worries? We'll gladly tell you how it can be done.
